8 Dear Ethel

I'm writing to tell you about something that happened yesterday. I got up at the usual time – about 10am – had a shower and made breakfast. I ate a big bowl of cereal and some toast and watched TV for a while. Then I went into the kitchen where I heard a funny noise. I thought it came from behind the cooker. I got my tool box and moved the cooker out of the way.

The noise got louder but I couldn't see anything. I rang my uncle to ask his advice. He said that he thought it could be a gas leak. When I heard this I just panicked! I put the phone down, ran outside, got in my car and drove to the local police station. I told them about my gas leak but the constable lost his patience with me. He said that I should have phoned the gas company. He wrote his report, then rang the gas company for me.

Then I remembered that my house doesn't have gas – only electricity! I felt really stupid and knew that the constable would be angry with me for wasting his time, so I ran out of the police station while he was still on the phone. I went home to try to find out what the noise was. On the way I bought a newspaper and I read about an escaped llama that broke out of the city safari park last Wednesday.

When I got home I put my key in the door, turned it, went inside and straight away heard that funny noise again. I held my breath and opened the door slowly. Guess what? I found the llama hiding in my cupboard! I let him stay and he slept in my garden last night. The snoring was so loud! This morning I took him back to the safari park. They were really pleased to see him again and gave me a reward of £50!

Walk past the main entrance to the park and turn right into Bromley Avenue. The bank is about 100 metres down Bromley Avenue. It's opposite the post office. It's not far from here – probably about 15 minutes if you walk quickly. You'd better hurry as I think it closes at five o'clock."
- 41 "I left school nearly fifteen years ago. My favourite subjects were English, French and History. I enjoyed French because it was interesting learning to speak a different language and I had a good teacher. I didn't like Science or Maths because they were a bit harder and I didn't like the teachers much. I'll never forget when our class went on a trip to France. We stayed in Paris for four nights. It was the first time I'd been abroad. My friends and I had so much fun!"

Dear Aunt Monica

Thank you very much for your letter. It was great to get a letter from you. I am really enjoying university life. I have made some good friends already – especially Helen and Marcus. Helen is from Manchester and Marcus comes from Liverpool. His accent is really weird.

Yesterday we went to Cardiff to do some shopping. Everything is much more expensive than back at home. I miss Jamaica and of course I miss you and my naughty little brothers. Cardiff is a big city – the capital city of Wales. Wales is next to England and a separate country, but they are both part of the UK. It's confusing, isn't it?

My course is very interesting. I am learning so much about the environment of this country. My teachers are good, except I wish they would speak more slowly some of the time. I can't always hear everything that they are saying. That's why I'm using a small tape recorder to record every lecture. Then I can listen to it in my room as I study. It really helps.

Thanks for asking about all my boyfriends! No, I haven't met anyone yet. I'm here to learn about the environment and practise my English, rather than go out drinking in pubs and clubs with boys every night! I hope that I will find someone who shares my interests. Until that time you will have to make do with me being a single girl!

With lots of love to you and my darling brothers Roger and Paul, and all my family and friends there. I will see you very soon. Hope I will hear from you soon too.

Your loving niece

They then write up to eight different options in separate boxes along the top row, for example: 'pasta, fish and chips, curry, lamb, chocolate biscuits, fruit, jacket potatoes, ice cream'. They interview different members of the class, writing the name of each person they ask in a separate box in the left-hand column. Students put a tick or a cross in the box to indicate whether their interviewee likes (tick) or dislikes (cross) each option.

Make sure that all of the spellings are correct. Then, write the words in the grid, with one letter in each space. Words can go horizontally, vertically, diagonally, right way up, or wrong way up – it doesn't matter. When all the words are in the grid, fill in the remaining squares with random letters of the alphabet, to 'hide' the words that you have added. Tip: make your wordsearch more difficult by adding 'red herrings'. For example, if one of your words is 'YELLOW', you could add 'YELL' or 'YELLO' as you fill up the remaining spaces.

- 85 Bingo is a popular game in the UK, played by thousands of people every week, often for large cash prizes. I'm not suggesting you start giving away millions in class, but students always have a lot of fun competing for more modest prizes, such as chocolate bars and so on! Method: copy the worksheets and cut up the bingo cards. Give one to each student and ask them to write down a random selection of fifteen numbers between 1-90 – one in each of the blank spaces. You could play bingo by either using a machine or computer software program that can generate numbers randomly, or you could think of a random set of numbers yourself. If you do the latter, make sure you write down the numbers that you have read out, so that you can check the winning student's bingo card for accuracy. Give prizes for the first student to complete any line, then the first student to complete their game board. If the same person wins both times, keep playing and award the remaining prize to whoever finishes next.
